Dental outcomes need their own proof.

Breath, plaque, calculus and diagnosed disease are different outcomes. A study of another chew cannot prove this one works.

OFFER FACT

Identify the product

The captured Happy Paws offer displayed $34.99 and 100 soft chews.

A count, price and published directions identify the offer; they do not demonstrate a dental outcome.

CATEGORY STUDY

Check the chew design

The supplied abstract studied a specifically designed oral-hygiene chew in small-breed dogs.

The packet does not establish a match to the Happy Paws formula, quantities or physical design.

PROOF BOUNDARY

Keep outcomes separate

No supplied controlled trial tests the marketed Happy Paws finished chew.

A seller claim, ingredient name or customer comment cannot close that product-evidence gap.

Evidence for a different chew does not establish this product's effect.

Sources: Happy Paws product page and the source-linked Daily Intel article. No finished-product proof inferred.

Four checks before a recurring order.

The captured product page displayed $34.99. A bottle price alone does not establish suitability or the full commitment.

01 / LABEL

What will the dog receive?

Obtain the complete ingredients and amounts per daily serving. Include the existing diet in the discussion.

02 / TERMS

What repeats?

Confirm one-time or subscription selection, frequency, next charge, cancellation steps and effective date.

03 / RETURNS

What qualifies?

The captured policy describes 60 days from order, original packaging and unopened or minimally used product.

04 / TOTAL

What will be paid?

Check current price, tax, shipping and discounts. The captured policy excludes shipping refunds.

Sources: Happy Paws product and return pages, captured 29 OCT 2026. Verify current checkout conditions.

Fill the gaps before deciding.

Keep the answer and its source together. A blank item is a question to resolve, not permission to assume.

- ☐ Exact product and complete label
- ☐ Veterinary and medication questions
- ☐ One clearly defined dental outcome
- ☐ Daily quantity and full cost
- ☐ Formula and physical-design match
- ☐ Recurring selection and cancellation
- ☐ Finished-product study and limits
- ☐ Return condition and deadline

Discuss individual suitability with a veterinarian; the page cannot decide it.